21st March

My Dear M^r Murray

Today I send your friend - pages 13-28 & 29-44 3^d Revise

These are all continuous narrative
chapters & contents
of D^o They are revised by himself
and contain all mine too - so I think all that is required with them
is to see that the

[0002]
printer puts all
needed corrections
in & if these are all off my mind
then I will send continuous narrative all through. First Revises I shall
send to Clowes
but as a great deal is in 2nd & 3^d these I will send to you to be as these are to be
plus the present
corrections out of [0003]

hand. If all your workmen are as troublesome to you
as I am then your life is a burden to you.
I sent a lot of the beginning part

to you yesterday & think that probably the parcel
contains what your friend wants. But in case of omission
I send today 2^d
Revise up to page 48.

[0004]

A good friend of mine to whom I shewed
the introduction
thought that a line
such as that in the 2^d page was necessary
I asked him to put in his idea, and he did it in the line which I refer to,
and as it is quite true, it might be inserted. If however it is too late never mind. I mention it simply because it is true & some might expect it.
