

Letter to John Richardson, 2 March 1865

Livingstone, David, 1813-1873

Published by Livingstone Online (livingstoneonline.org)

[0001]

2 March 1865

My Dear Sir John

I thank you

very much for kindly writing about the trees in the Artic
regions putting forth fresh leaves
while the roots
are still hard frozen.
This putting forth
of new buds & leaves while the

[0002]

the roots can draw
no moisture is the only part to which I refer - but as it is not essential to the statement
that your name
be mentioned I shall omit it.
I did not like to mention your name without letting you know
beforehand.

[0003]

We had begun to think in this quarter that the Artic climate had come thus far south - didn't
actually blame
the Admiralty
for some mistake
in the gulph stream but

thought the weather atrocious
I hope you have been enjoying

[0004]
good health through it all and am
very Truly Yours
David Livingstone
To
Sir John Richardson