Monday Morning

My Dear D<sup>r</sup> Shaw

I enclose the paper with a perfect
host of corrections

I never read the reports in the public
papers but hope
they were more
correct than "our own reporters"

[0002]

In some points he has not caught the idea which whether it ever came out
or not was in my own mind,
probably a share
and a very large share of the blame
is after all my
own. Sir Roderick mentioned my obligations to General

[0003]

Hay. I forget the precise words.

Would you mind
adding something like the last sentence

I mean if it is right to do so

You see in the Times
this morning the mistake is put on my shoulders and
my friend Prout

is no doubt ready [0004]
to swear that corrected
by myself is true.
I having merely glanced at the newspaper
thing & pointed out
that it was all wrong
about the Zambesi
After this "Save me from some of my friends"

D. Livingston

I believe I have drawn my pen through the words to be left out.
