21st April 1863 - 2 (P.M.)

My Dear Waller

I have to be bearer of heavy tidings Poor Thornton about 10 this . His case was when I wrote yesterday but we him on board the and a place up for him & hoped that the change constant attendance might with youth & an unimpaired

[0002] enable to weather attack of which you the commencement was delirious in the and continued so

D^r Meller was by him whole night & did that man do - We must to the will of Him ordered all things. feel the blow extremely scarcely know what say or what to think. have a number of Magrath - Pearce

& this morning Wilson one Johanna man.

[0003] brother was down but is again this morning

We have cut an opening the vegetation for a few and found a gradual up to the plateau. I have tried the first today or tomorrow for our affliction

Whatever of Thornton's remain with your charge will of course taken charge of carefully must take up his bills the sheep and goats. Clementino being an honest no difficulty will . It was a prudent to avoid complications

[0004] slaves - They have had a ba[d] and always retain slavish character.

M^s Young sends the tackle & block of copper nails we have none will be sent instead

I am glad that you like [^][Rajah] Brooke is a brick - though he has had bear much misrepresentations trust he will be seen coming clear at last. Some sweet have been said of your servant keep them to place them over against bitter - A minister once gave wife great comfort by "he must [^][take] the bitter with sweet in Providence." I your sick are improving my kindest salutations

& believe me Ever Yours
