My Dear Captain Washington

I take the liberty of enclosing a list of articles said by Baines to have been furnished by Windsor & Newton. He had stowed away a very large quantity of artists' materials in his private boxes and on D<sup>r</sup> Kirk asking where he got them, replied, that Windsor & Newton had made him a present of them. Then, that he got them out of the Australian expedition. It might easily be ascertained whether Windsor & Newton (Spring gardens) really made him a present of those materials - paints of all kinds - canvas &c. I suspect the Australian Expedition was a droll one and the Colonial office unwittingly gave him a good character. He has a large parcel of brass rings in his boxes at Tette stolen from my private property.

Thornton seemed to turn over a new leaf when cut off from us. We could not previously get a bit of work out of him. He tried to get D<sup>r</sup> Kirk to invalid him in vain. He went up to Zumbo with a half cast trader but has only confounded my published opinion of the extension of the coal field thither. I offered him a passage home but the Portuguese have induced him to examine the upper part of Kebrabasa for a silver mine said to have been once worked by the Jesuits. He says he has no animus against me. "It was a lethargy he could not shake off.”, and he is now fat & well. He wished me to sell him our theodolite and [0003]

a sextant but I could not see Gov<sup>t</sup> property. He has the use of all the instruments he brought out

By the way our craft has nearly ruined most of the magnetic instruments besides provisions & private property. We can take only what barely serves for a trip she is so leaky and wet. Could you send us some magnetic instruments that may have been returned from other Expeditions i.e. if we get a new ship like the Bann. With incredible labour and repeated dryings my worthy associate D<sup>r</sup> Kirk has at least got his collection down so far to the sea. I feel sure that Sir William Hooker will be pleased and I am [0004]
his choice does him great credit there are many new plants and I hope you will make the valuable woods & cottons known. We have sent seeds of Buaze to Natal, the Cape and India.

I hope you will lend your aid in getting freedom of navigation on the Zambesi. While the Portuguese have the exclusive use of it no good can be done. They are few in number and of the convict class chiefly. The immorality is frightful and any one who does no do as they do is hated - they hate us bitterly, but we have had no quarrel.
We keep aloof and seem to be regarded as standing protests against their ways. According to them the fine young men of Commodore Owen's party [0005]
were killed by indulgences with Donna Pascoa & other women at this place. Bedingfeld had been exhibiting his bougies here and I was taken aback by the superintendant of the estate once asking me something about him and asking specifying him as "the officer with thirty Bougies." I am not so much discouraged by the defections that have taken place as you may be for I have seen a good many occur even among missionaries. It is only by patient perseverance that success is ultimately obtained and should I get the vessels [0006]

I have applied for I feel confident that with the Divine blessing a large amount of good will result. We have overcome the fever, and know that any European living morally need not fear it more than a common cold. A curious point has of late shewed itself a very greatly decreased dose of the remedy serves better than a large one did at first 1/2 a grain of the pill produces as much effect as 10 or 12 did formerly. Good living is essential i.e. if compelled to live on salt meat or maize meal we are more liable to fever. We [0007]

must have flour and fresh meat and I think that after any specially hard work ale would be beneficial for when we returned from Nyassa after forty days tramp we all took a sore longing for a glass of beer though on ordinary occasions and at home we dont care for it.

I have been obliged to buy calico to pay current expenses this is very much dearer than what I got from M<sup>r</sup> Turner of Manchester. Our Makololo crew of 12 did well for six months but got so tired by perpetual wood cutting in [0008]

ascending up the river that they begged me to take others. I took 24 the wood cutting required is really heart breaking. I beg you to examine M<sup>r</sup> Rae all about the vessel and everything else. I dont wish to hide an iota from you.

I come down now though the bottom is all patched and continually breaking out afresh in order to get M<sup>r</sup> Rae safely off and D<sup>r</sup> Kirk's specimens with him. I would have gone up the Makololo Country at once - but felt perplexed as to whether you will send us another steamer - the loss of the mail bag leaving us in the dark. We heard at Senna that the mail bag had been found & taken by a native to Quilimane & passed us on the way down from Tette Ever yours
