

Letter to Edmund Gabriel, 7 October 1858

David Livingstone

Published by Livingstone Online (livingstoneonline.org)

[0001]

R Kongone; Steamer Ma Robert, [8] 7 Oct^r 1858

My Very Dear friend,

I cannot forgive you because I was never offended having recieved from M^r Brand the assurances you expected him to give and even though I had not a poor friendship that vanishes at a far - The Lynx came into the Kongone river and sent up to me. I came down at once and during the time they have been making some repairs I have been writing long official letters about our friend

You ought to make old Jose Laurengo Marques the Governor of Angola - Write care of Admiral Grey no excuse now you know [0002]

Bedingfeld - I gave him the appointment Lord Clarendon having put all into my power chiefly from what I saw of him at your house and his offering to go and "be delighted to serve under my command I made his salary equal to double commander's full pay £600 - and felt that I had an able coadjutor But he quarreled with the commander of the Pearl and on public altercation N^o 4 taking place I said - (Having previously remonstrated in private) C. B. I must have no more of these public altercations - He resigned that night and accused me of slighting him injuring his professional reputation by consulting the other Captain more than him &c &c I explained and assured him it was an entire mistake and allowed him to withdraw the letter. But he wou quarrel again - gave in a second [0003]

resignation from an idea that we could not move a mule without him - and then commenced a series of slanders, carping, complainings, and raising objections, which the medical officer & I looked upon as the effects of irritable bladder & bowels on the mind but it became so absolutely unbearable especially from the untruthfulness which I am sorry to say he indulged in that - I at last accepted his resignation and sent him to Kilimane to wait for a passage to England - ~~o~~[Y]ou will I have no doubt find it difficult to credit it of him and I would not wonder in the least but he recieved ~~its~~[this] letter containing my acceptance of his resignation with dancing and singing - And when I took charge of the steamer myself and came back

I believe I forgot to tell you that I visited M^s Horsfall at Bellamon Hall near Rugeley Staff^d & saw a _____ter[s]timonial which is to be given to M^{rs} Gabriel when you get to her! He desired me to say so - Hope who[e]ver she is she may be a good one [0004]

after making a quicker passage with a heavier load than he even did - I never once touched the ground & he did perpetually - this brought him to his senses - He tried various dodges to regain his position but I had borne to the utmost limits of endurance and declined his services - All my companions heartily approve the step I took and as we never had a single touch of ill nature except from him we go on comfortably

He tries now to make himself out a poor persecuted individual and I can declare most solemnly that I never entertained the idea of thwarting him - and at the very time he was asserting that I slighted him, and wished to get rid of him by persecution, I was writing highly of him to Lord Malmesbury and Sir George Grey, and the latter published my letter. This subject has occupied my time of late and is the most disagreeable I ever attempted -

Well I tried to come in to Loanda but could not honestly do it - as you will have heard from Sierra Leone I have got the enclosure from the Bishop all right - [0005]

We got into the Zambesi by a new mouth named Kongone, and being obliged to send off the Pearl which brought us out we have been slowly working our luggage up river by this Launch I have been to Tette and found my men waiting in anxious expectation of my return but small pox had cut off thirty of them and six had been killed by a neighbouring rebel chief - Poor Sekneeben's death was a sad blow and though they recieved me with screams of joy and grasping me convulsively The team came whether I would or not. Some time will be required to bring up all our 25 tons of luggage - for poor Bedingfeld's untruthfullness began in England We got a steamer called the Ban drawing only three feet which would have sailed on the river the whole year, but when B. heard he was to navigate her out he wished me to apply for a second master and on my declining though he had been well pleased with the Ban he now condemned her enough because Kind regards to Schut & all my acquaintances [0006]

he knew what we learned afterward that he could not from seasickness navigate her out - He reported to me also that this was an admirable vessel and required very little fuel - We spend half our time woodcutting - It is with great grief I tell you these things for I know your good opinion of him as you remarked to me on his leaving Loanda "he is A. I." & that induced me to appoint him -

We get a ton and a half of coals at Tette the first even taken out of the ground in this country and it is very good coal too more like the Welsh than any other though what we got had been exposed to the floods of the Muatize for ages - With abundance of iron ore and coal surely the Great Architect designed & will work out something better for Africa that that she should always be a slave market - The Portugese have been as kind as ever and especially Major Secard - they were fighting when we came but we went from one park to the other without molestation by either simply because we were English - but the war is now over for a few weeks [I suppo] [0007]

My missionary friends are rather grumpy with me for leaving them and they snarl considerably since my departure for Africa because I have turned counsul - Kebra-basa is said to be rocks jutting out of the stream and rendering the deep channel tortuous and dangerous but if half a years slashing will make an open way for a steamer then what will they say if I turn quarrymen too.

You recommended the German D^r but they are not in much favour as home on account of their greediness - Two of them got away instruments value two thousand pounds and though paid by England published the results in Germany & kept the instruments - But if you befriend them you will won the Prince Consorts heart - From what I have seen and heard I am become so bigotted that I prefer an Englishman & out to any one of the Wel [0008]

I think England ought to buy Angola on this side but the Villa da Fleur was sent out to survey the Luabo and build a fort & custom house but they did not know where it was and the Government of Mosambique cannot pay its own officers though it costs the mother country 240 thousand ambreis per annum -

We have had no fever properly so called though we have had illness the Zambesi maybe called a sand river and not a muddy one like those in the West - We have lots of lignum vital & ebony on its banks but full reports will be made by my companions - My wife met her father & mother at Cape Town and went with them to be confined at Kuruman When we left England we expected to come here together - Three of our children are at school & one with his Mamma. My brother is with me He was offered £800 a year if he would take the situation Monteiro got Thornton is with me as