

Letter to John Murray III, 26 May 1857

Livingstone, David, 1813-1873

Published by Livingstone Online (livingstoneonline.org)

[0001]

Hadley Hurst

Barnet.

26th May 1857

My Dear M^r Murray,

We did not away the other till near , so did disturb you I took the of sending

[0002] man who our to the to disturb next day. could not take till were gone I drew on kindness & will settle this

[0003] item when I come the larger the future.

Will Kane's be any help to ? It is spoken highly of I would to see it if think it while. I like to Roget's of - [0004] Maunders treasury words. Kane would only care to the loan of a library. place is perfectly . It feels like an engine board a steamer suddenly stopped shall get on now.

Your reviser better not

[0005] have much before see the corrections I find that another has been to mind that of my than intended and

[0006] can by adding put right. I begin feel somewhat lest should not exactly or rather my way saying them

[0007] convey but the veritable I have of in my mind. When impression ~~made~~[printed off] then will be altering any

[0008]

I go on with the matter now will soon you a good of progress

I am &c

D. Livingstone

Sir Roderick raises expectations the public about book by his .