Birkenhead 9th March

1858

Dear Captain Washington

I enclose for your consideration the account which D<sup>r</sup> Kirk has handed to me and would only
remark that he asked my permission [0002]
to buy the strychnine
I told him to buy
it on my account (for poisoning animals
without injury to their skins) and offered to pay it myself. He prefers to put it in this account. I do not put my name
to it as I do not [0003]
know whether you would approve of it seeing the pay has been running on since the first
of February and the duty has not been very arduous. However if it is right I shall be glad to know &
act accordingly. the seeds were a few pounds in weight only

I am still ready to pay for the Strychnine.

6 1/2 oclock

The weather here is excessively bad. The Pilot says it would be madness to go out. We meet again at 10 A.M. tomorrow
All are ready at a moments notice and
nothing but the weather prevents our going

I am &c

David Livingstone

I sent my last accounts for presents yesterday. They are under £300 - & with the £107 for machinery allowed by the F.O. under £400
