

Letter to John Murray III, 31 May 1857

Livingstone, David, 1813-1873

Published by Livingstone Online (livingstoneonline.org)

[0001]

Hadley Green

31st May 1857

My Dear M^r Murray

I was extremely and pained the utterly unwarrantable taken by the you employed my copy. I cannot that you are of them as you what M^r Elwin about the pleasure experienced in what I had in my own

[0002] . I have the of Prof. Owen

Sir Roderick Murchison

M^r Elvin & M^r Binney it is more likely be popular and than if diluted emasculated as man has impudently to do. It therefore both for advantage & that I reject in toto every change in red ink

[0003] am sorry you have at the expense of this man will refund all have expended him if you please my dear friend iota of his must go. I and will submit any one even to his . The parts which I have the of

[0004]

M^r Binney can and stand as I have them. I have to the conclusion reading Kane's book today - set your to that and I he would & transpose than in mine yet that is popular think I may declare you that you not find me or

[0005] or to deal in any other but I must resist attempts to tamper or emasculate book I am you have not at this fellows seriously is quite abominable no earthly con-will

[0006] me succumb make the work mere primer fear, by the explanation have given wherever obscure was marked will even now of too much the penny primer . Many the corrections put in are given in Kanes my book will [0007] read by persons much the same as to intell-as the readers his.

I send this before but come up Monday [myself] - I can a man who some sympathy African travel

Galton for instance D^r Archer. All emendations introduced in black must be retained [0008] those in red are nil would not for anything give you one pain but is a case in which interests will as well as if allowed go on. I can not & will not submit this unknown would do anything for you but you cant be of

David Livingstone