My Lord Ebury

I beg leave to return my hearty thanks for the kind expressions contained in your favour of the 2^d (Jan^y.)
and also for the kind feeling which prompted
you to bring the subject of the Homoeopathic system to my notice. I tried

[0002]

the whole range of Homoeopathic globules on the natives of Africa & unfortunately without ever producing or
alleviating a single symptom. This was the case also with my father in law M^r Moffat &
was a cause of regret
inasmuch as these forms of medicine are so very portable.

Among Boers, half castes and others who are accustomed to use coffee tea condiments &c the case

[0003]

was different. There the globules were often very useful as there is at the time of their exhibition usually a strict enforce ment of proper regimen.

With this latter I found bread pills quite as efficacious in curing many complaints. And I consequently became a little sceptical as to the value of the globules.
Homoeopathy has done
great good in exploding
the overdrugging system which prevailed in this

[0004]
country as it shewed
how much unassisted
nature can do. but
before pinning our faith to the system
I think it would be fair for those who believe in it to shew what is effected by their
art in contradistinction
to what is effected by nature. I never met
one who would pretend
to shew this. and as no effects follow in the native constitution
where the diet is of the simplest kind I am disposed

[0005]
to attribute the effects
you have observed
to the regimen allowing nature to have fair
play.

I passed through the usual medical curriculum but
was not taught
"Allopathy" though
I have seen statements
made by persons
who attended the
same classes to the

[0006]

effect that they
in adopting the Homoeopathic system had been converted from Allopathic
principles. I dont wonder at your Lordship speaking with scorn of the "thing
called Allopathy" for
it must have been brought under your notice by those who believe in Homoeopathy
using a nickname
which they have

[0007]

invented. I was taught the Eclectic system
i.e. to choose the
good out of all
the systems - (and
many systems there
have been, each of
which had as much
claim on our regard
for cures effected
as Homoeopathy) - and
to leave the nonsense
as much as possible
alone. I am sensible
of no mental bias

[0008]

against Homoeopathy
I only wish that I could find a tenth part in it of the good some see therein but I could not trust my own life in a serious illness to it and I hope your Lordship will not
when you really need
medicine lean on
nature alone

Again thanking your Lordship for kindly

writing to me I am

Truly Yours

David Livingstone
