

Letter to Horace Waller, 28 November 1863

Livingstone, David, 1813-1873

Published by Livingstone Online (livingstoneonline.org)

[0001]

Murchuson's Cataracts
28 Nov^r 1863

My dear Waller

The bishop gives me a different idea of the affair of the women and children. He wishes to avoid mixing the sexes on the station & after our Magomero experience with both
English and Heathen
I think the precaution a very wise one. I shall either take measures to have them supplied from M^r Ferra's till

[0002]

they can raise a crop or take them to Johanna I have but little wish to make them Mahometans for my late experience of these Johanna men gives me a very low idea of their morals. If the boys were not taken up
I would willingly have gone to the expense of sending all to the Cape in the hope that good bishop Gray would make something of the boys.
but I dont wish to appear as if acting in opposition to the bishop of his mission. It is a

[0003]

pity that you separated yourself from them for you might have been of great service by your experience and they might have been useful to you in various ways
I came home here on 31st (Oct^r) pretty tired after marching as the crow flies 660 gepgraphical mile[s][...] [or] about 1400 of [...] [your] friend Steward's standard miles - We are waiting anxiously for the rising of the waters - all very well thanks to a Higher Power
We are all ready -

[0004]

I have little time to write; as I hope to see you soon it feels as if a work of supererogation - We send away a few Shupanga men as our native food runs low. Your friends from the hills came down with reinforcements and with the Mission Ajawa & [...] Makololo drove Mank[...] on to an island & bo[...] his village - two on each side wounded so saith vox populi - with every good wish I am &c

David Livingstone

lost a Johanna man yesterday by a crockodile