Dear Sir George

I am ashamed
of my manners
since my return to England, I never called nor thanked you for your kind gift, though
if you will only

[0002]

believe me I shall tell you how it is
I have appeared so unnatural. The first part of my sojourn in England
was so taken up with the book -
the second with
the speechifying
and the third with preparation

[0003]

for leaving that I must have seemed to those who do not make allowances
as decidedly wanting
in common politeness . But I can honestly say that I deeply feel
the sympathy you
have manifested

for my work
and I thank you

[0004]
most heartily for
the friendship which
you and Lady Back
have shewn. If ever I return you
will find me
a more natural man than I have been
this time. If not may we through mercy meet each other in Heaven .

I am gratefully
yours

David Livingstone
