Dear Sir

I have no great objection against giving an autograph to a Lady but I feel to be such a silly thing to write my name for a great heanimal like you would'nt be better now to spend the money you waste

in postage stamps
plaguing people,
in supporting a
poor shivering
half starved naked
boy or girl at a ragged school. I think one would remember having
saved the perishing
with greater pleasure
on a dying bed

[0003] than that he had secured all the autographs from Ham's to old Abe Lincoln's
