Captain Duncan has draw £130 on the Ceylon Government Steamer Pearl, at sea 19th April 1858 Private My Dear Captain Washington I am happy to inform you that we are now so far on our way as to have the prospect of reaching the Cape by tomorrow $(20\frac{\text{th}}{})$ evening We left Sierra Leone on the 10th and sighted the coast near Cape Negro, and considering that we have had head winds nearly all the way and a current against us as well we have done fairly. My companions are all in good health and spirits but Mrs L. has been sick

 $28^{\underline{\text{th}}}$ April We found M^r and M^{rs} Moffat here from Kuruman - my men still at Tete - Skead is going with us - so is the Hermes - Duncan is supplied with money by Sir George Grey to be repaid by the continuously ever since we left Sierra Leone and as it seems to be the sea sickness plus 'the nine months complaint to which ladies are subject I have decided to leave her at the Cape and let her proceed with her brother M^r Moffat to Kuruman, there to await her confinement and then come up overland to the Makololo country, this arrangement is a great disappointment to me and will be still more so to the Makololo who looked forward to her coming with more interest than [to] mine. She would have been a comfort to any who might be sick. the expense is considerable, £200 at least, and to make matters worse I actually gave away my waggon now standing at Cape Town a few days before I left England, and a new one costs £75 in this dear labour country

Ceylon Government - Maclear is well & hearty - Captain Saunders of the Buffalo sailed with you and would do anything for us for your sake - we sail on 30^{th} Captain Lister is thoroughly obliging the Admiral not having returned yet. I am &c David Livingstone

I have written out instructions for all my companions and regular observations will be begun as soon as we leave the Cape in order to get their hands in. I have thought that the following deviation from the plan drawn out will meet your approbation. After the Bar is sounded we take the Pearl into smooth water, put the Launch together as that can be done in a few hours and then make her pilot the Pearl up the river. Then from whatever point it may be determined on to send the Pearl back, send the Ma Robert to pilot her back to the sea. She will sound both ways and the risk of grounding the larger vessel will be reduced to the minimum.

It may be well to examine both the Luabo branches - i.e. The Eastern & Western or Hoskins as it may be called as he thinks the latter the best, and then make our choice but this will be left to Bedingfeld's judgment, and the state of the river when we get there. Captain Duncan is a very careful navigator. By the way $M^{\underline{r}}$ Duncan the Colonial Office agent neglected to give him any money to purchase fresh provisions for his crew, and he needed planks [fresh water] & besides Oldfield from whom he got what he needed seemed unwilling to take his bill on the Colonial Office so to settle the difficulty I wrote "approved" on the bills and as we were just sailing I could [not] write you to tell you that these expenses are not those of the Expedition but of the Colonial vessel. The senior Naval officer was absent and the commissariat could not give us men to coal so Captain D. was obliged to incur expenses which were not provided for by the Colonial agent. It will be so here again I suppose.
