Letter to John Murray III, 21 March 1865

Livingstone, David, 1813-1873

Published by Livingstone Online (livingstoneonline.org)

[0001]

21st March

My Dear M<sup>r</sup> Murray

Today I send your friend - pages 13-28 & 29-44  $3^{\underline{d}}$  Revise These are all continuous narrative chapters & contents of Do They are revised by himself and contain all mine too - so I think all that is required with them is to see that the [0002]printer puts all needed corrections in & if these are all off my mind then I will send continuous narrative all through. First Revises I shall send to Clowes but as a great deal is in  $2^{nd}$  & 3<sup>d</sup> these I will send to you to be as these are to be plus the present corrections out of [0003]hand. If all your workmen are as troublesome to you as I am then your life is a burden to you.

I sent a lot of the beginning part to you yesterday & think that probably the parcel contains what your friend wants. But in case of omission I send today 2<sup>d</sup> Revise up to page 48. [0004]A good friend of mine to whom I shewed the introduction thought that a line such as that in the  $2^{\rm d}$  page was necessary I asked him to put in his idea, and he did it in the line which I refer to, and as it is quite true, it might be inserted. If however it is too late never mind. I mention it simply because it is true & some might expect it.